

THE BEE EFFECT PROGRAMME

Questions and answers from the session:

1. I am looking for a hands-on experience, so I am wondering how the programme will offer that to me?

The programme will offer a number of practical skill-oriented workshop during its in-person and online events, but it will also allow you an even more tailored hands on experience through case study groups, where you and a few other participants will work together to solve a societal issue/challenge.

2. Who will I be exchanging experiences with during the programme?

Programme is open for participants from Western Balkans, Romania, Greece, Croatia and Turkey, but our alumni comes from the wider region. However, due to the big number of alumni coming from Western Balkans, we expect the majority of participants and alumni to be from these countries.

3. Does attendance in the programme require paying a fee?

No, attendance in the programme is free, the programme is funded through beeEFB aNetwork by European fund for the Balkans.

4. Can I apply if I am not specialized in the topics listed in the Call for participants?

Of course - we are not looking for experts, we are looking for people interested to learn more about these topics. For example, we don't expect people to know all things power, but to provide intersectional insights to the participants.

5. If I work in public administration but I am also engaged in the non profit sector, how should I apply, what would be better?

You should list both your current employment and your other commitments. We are especially encouraging and looking for participants who are engaged outside of their work in the lives of their communities and are working on making them better.

6. What if I am not currently residing in one of the countries from where the eligible participants are coming?

Current residence outside of the countries listed in the Call for participants is not a disqualifying factor. If you already know you will not be in the region at the time of the launching event, please flag it in the application for our logistical purposes. As long as you can commit to attend all elements of the programme, your place of the residence will not affect your eligibility.
